Paving districts possible

'Get-tough' stand advocated

County Commissioner John Fulgenzi of Amarillo said last week he will advocate commissioners take a tough stand for formation of road or paving districts inside the county to allow rural residents who want paved roads to pay for them out of their own pockets.

Fulgenzi, informed Thursday that formation of paving districts is already legal in Texas, indicated he may broach the possibility with commissioners that the county decline to pave rural roads. Rural residents wanting pavement could vote bonds and special taxes on their property to support the paving projects.

Currently, the county foots the bill for paving of county roads in rural areas, and commissioners have become acutely conscious in recent months of the sky-rocketing costs of providing and maintaining paved roads for a small number of rural home-owners.

Dist. Atty. George Dowlen is scheduled to appear before commissioners during their regular Monday session to discuss the legal aspect of forming paving or road districts within the county. Fulgenzi called on Dowlen during a meeting last Monday to draw up a law for presentation to the state legislature allowing the establishment of road districts in the county.

However, Article 752c of Vernon's Annotated Civil Statutes allows commissioners to form paving or road districts. The statutes establish that the paving districts are to be headed by the county commissioners as ex officio road superintendents, to direct pavement bidding and material purchases.

The statute also allows citizens within the established paving districts to petition commissioners court for a bond election, providing for issuance of bonds to be repaid through taxation only within the district seeking the bond issue.

While establishment of paving districts might be a new thought for Randall County commissioners, commissioners in Sherman County on the North Plains have had road districts for a number of years and are apparently pleased with the results.

Sherman County Judge Bill Frizzell said Sherman County has four paving districts, each corresponding to a commissioner's precinct.

He explained that the system works in practice well, as designed by the state laws.

Frizzell said the additional tax burden placed on the rural residents within the road districts varies according to the paving needs and the desires of the residents.

"We might have one road district with $500,000 worth of paving and another with $200,000," he said.

The establishment of paving districts in Sherman County has taken the county out of the paving business, he said, and the county budget is no longer required to foot the bill for rural road upgrading.

The county itself, through its tax structure, expends funds on road only for maintenance of paved roads and dirt roads.

Frizzell said the establishment of paving dis-

Texas Tech gets nod, cooperation ignored

Pharmacy school for university nixed by board

The coordinating board for state colleges turned down Friday a proposal for establishment of a pharmacy school at West Texas State University.

The board voted 10-2 in favor of locating a new pharmacy school on the Texas Tech University campus at Lubbock.

A disappointed Lloyd I. Watkins, WTSU president, returned from Austin Friday evening. He told The News he feels WTSU officials and friends "did all we could do" to attempt to persuade the board to locate the pharmacy school in Canyon.

A similar proposal by Texas A&I was also refused. A pharmacy school proposal from the University of Texas at Dallas was deferred after coordinating board members received a letter from the regents of the vast University of Texas system offering to reduce enrollment at the UT-Austin campus pharmacy school to boost the UT-Dallas project.

A spokesman for the coordinating board said the board's program development committee, meeting in session Thursday to discuss the applications for establishment of a new pharmacy school in the state, heard presentations from all four schools before deciding for the Tech site.

The spokesman said Watkins, who travelled to Austin for the committee meeting along with Dr. Ray Malzahn, academic vice president, proposed a cooperative arrangement be approved between WTSU and another university for the pharmacy school. Watkins, the spokesman said, suggested the school might even be located in Amarillo as a joint enterprise of WTSU and Tech.

Watkins said he broached the subject of a cooperative effort to the program development committee but they were apparently not interested in the prospect.

No action was taken on that proposal.

In connection with the decision to deny the location of the proposed school at WTSU, the coordinating board also denied proposals for degree programs in pharmacy for the university.

The coordinating board's action Monday followed an April meeting when board members agreed there is a need for establishment of a new pharmacy school in the state. Prior to that time the possibility had been studied by a special blue-ribbon committee. A majority report from that committee suggested there was no need for a new school of pharmacy. A minority report, penned by Amarillo pharmacist Bill Pittman, cited the need for a new school and suggested the WTSU campus as a site.

The plan presented by WTSU and rejected Friday called for a five-year pharmacy curriculum with training proceeding along two basic tracks in an effort to turn out pharmacists prepared to practice in a hospital or medical facility environment and pharmacists prepared to practice community pharmacy.

Although disappointed with the outcome of the pharmacy school vote, Watkins said he is pleased the board approved seven other programs for implementation.

Programs approved include a new baccalaureate level degree in applied arts and sciences — a so-called inverted degree for those with training in junior colleges in technical areas — and a baccalaureate degree in general studies — designed for housewives, senior citizens or others who have no clear-cut career goal for a college education.

Another program approved allows for a full-fledged degree in criminal justice.

A masters degree in generic education was approved as well as a degree in recreation.

Amarillo School Board members claimed Thursday night there's plenty of room for new students in the newly-constructed Amarillo High School, even though several portable classrooms have been erected on the campus to handle over-flow.

School trustees hear testimony

Annex decision due on Tuesday

The pressure on them to make a decision, Randall County school trustees are expected to decide Tuesday morning whether to allow a 150-acre tract of development land in South Amarillo to be annexed by the Amarillo school district.

The board is to meet at 10 a.m. Tuesday in the office of County Judge Woody Pond.

Trustees made no decision Thursday night following a two-hour session thrown open for public comment and for questions.

More than 70 persons crammed into the county courtroom in Canyon for the board meeting, held ostensibly to ensure the decision they make cannot be called either capricious or arbitrary.

Testimony came from more than a dozen persons, including three attornies, an Amarillo school board member and several Canyon board representatives.

The decision expected Tuesday could either allow Amarillo's district to annex the 150-acre tract, now under development by Glenn O'Dell, or could deny the petition presented by landowners in the tract, thereby holding the land within the Canyon school district.

A large contingent of parents from the Gene Howe school area was present at the meeting Thursday night and they spoke adamantly about the quality of Canyon schools even though O'Dell, his attorney and several of the seven residents who live in the tract in question attempted to limit discussion of the annexation issue to only those living in the affected acreage.

A two-page type-written document distributed to those present by a mustachioed youth just prior to the opening of the meeting contained the essence of the arguments for annexation presented by the seven landowners who have petitioned the county trustees and who have also filed a civil lawsuit to force a decision.

And, their position was further explained by their attorney, Bob Templeton of Amarillo, who promised that if a favorable decision was reached by the trustees he will dismiss the pending lawsuit.

The prepared sheet explaining the position of those in O'Dell's development said the group has "no quarrel with the CISD or anyone living in this district.

"Whether one school is better than another is not of great importance to us."

The statement points out that within 8 blocks of the development is an elementary school, within 12 blocks a junior high and within two miles a high school. The children from the area are now required to travel by bus to either Gene Howe Elementary, a distance of about four miles, or to Canyon's junior high or high school, a distance of about 12 miles.

"Again, we want to repeat that we do not dislike the CISD schools," the statement said. "They are excellent schools. It is simply a matter of wanting our children to attend schools in their own neighborhood, regardless of which school district this happens to be in."

The statement charged that the school buses which carry children from the development

EEOC is reacting slowly

Mrs. Strain's discrimination case is going in circles now

"I wouldn't doubt that we're running in some kind of circle," City Manager George Loudder said with a sigh Friday after receiving another letter from the San Antonio office of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission concerning the complaint filed two years ago by Mrs. Marguerite Strain.

The slow-moving EEOC informed Loudder in the letter received Friday that efforts toward conciliation of the complaint will be terminated unless he wishes to reopen conciliation efforts.

In fact, conciliation efforts never really began for the City of Canyon, named by Mrs. Strain as one of two parties in her complaint.

"It is my understanding that conciliation efforts in (Mrs. Strain's) case have been unsuccessful," wrote Alvero Garza, district director of the EEOC office to Loudder. "They will, therefore, be terminated unless you notify us within five days of your receipt of this notice that you wish the conciliation reopened.

"The charging party will be advised of her right to request a Notice of Right to Sue."

Loudder has never talked face-to-face with a representative of the EEOC in San Antonio, but last summer received a letter asking him to come to that South Texas city to begin conciliation efforts. Loudder informed the EEOC they could come to Canyon to begin the talks. No one ever showed up.

Apparently, conciliation also broke down with the other party to the complaint, the Texas Municipal Retirement System, headquartered in Austin.

Dean Gorham, executive director of the TMRS, is reported to have told the EEOC he was not interested in conciliation and preferred a court confrontation.

Mrs. Strain complained to the EEOC two years ago that the TMRS discriminates against women in figuring retirement benefits based on actuarial tables which indicate that women on the average live about five years longer than men on the average.

EEOC officials apparently realized more than a month ago that conciliation efforts were futile and Mrs. Strain as well as News reporters have talked telephonically with EEOC officials about her next course of action.

That course, possibly a civil law suit, remains only a possibility because no definitive answer has come from the EEOC on who or how the suit would be handled. An EEOC official told The News the suit might be handled either by EEOC attornies based in Colorado or privately by Mrs. Strain. Mrs. Strain has said she cannot afford litigation and the Texas Civil Liberties Union has offered moral support only in official action.

She has also contended she does not wish to file suit against the City of Canyon.

Loudder said he will reply to Garza's letter this week and urge the EEOC to come up with a solution to the Strain complaint.

"My reply will be that their suggestions to this point have not been legally possible for the City of Canyon to follow and if this is the case and this is all the

County school board's tradition is steeped in non-controversy

The Randall County School Board has a tradition of the routine.

While in existence for decades in the county, the trustees have occupied a peripheral seat in the eye of the public, coming into view only occasionally.

Controversy, if not avoided, is not a frequent visitor to trustee meetings.

Until recently that is.

The county board of school trustees is definitely only a cousin of the Canyon Independent School District Board, an altogether separate body, which in the past has confined its activities to approvals of bus routes and school bus supplies in almost rubber-stamp fashion.

The recent dispute over possible annexation of 150-acres of land into the Amarillo school district has thrust the county school trustees into that unfamiliar glare of public scrutiny.

Headed by an elected chairman, the county school board of trustees sits not only to consider questions dealing with school bus matters, but also as an appellate jurisdiction over actions taken by the Canyon school board.

The importance in routine business of the county trustees has diminished in the past few years in the county.

County Judge Woody Pond, who serves under the law as ex-officio county school superintendent, explained that Texas statutes provide for the county board to act as an arbiter for counties wherein there are an independent school district and one or more common school districts.

Randall County's last common school district, in Umbarger area, was abolished about five years ago through action by the trustees and their dealings are now primarily with the local independent school district.

Pond said the board is now responsible for okaying all CISD bus routes, ensuring the routes are operated properly and the children are treated properly.

The board is also a court of appeal for all cases originating in the CISD board, cases including even discipline.

As the appellate jurisdiction, the board has become involved in the annexation dispute which rages now centering on the 150-acre tract of development land in

Tulsa downs WT Buffs

TULSA, Okla. — The Golden Hurricane took advantage of West Texas State mistakes in the third quarter then held on as the Buffs fourth quarter rally fell short for a 17-14 Missouri Valley Conference win here Saturday night.

The Hurrican emoved into undisputed leadership of the MVC with the win as New Mexico State and Louisville, co-leaders going into the day's play, were upset victims. Tulsa now has a 3-0 mark. West Texas State came up on the short end only for the second time in six games, but both have been in MVC play.

West Texas grabbed a 7-0 lead early in the second period at the end of an 81-yard drive in 12 plays when quarterback Tully Blanchard hit Merced Solis on a look-in pattern from nine yards out for the points.

Tulsa came right back to knot the score at 7-7 at intermission.

The Hurricane drove 80 yards in 12 plays with Thomas Bailey punching over from the one for the touchdown.

The third quarter never was very good for the Buffs. One Tulsa drive was stopped on a pass interception by Steve Rogers, but three plays later Blanchard's pitchout to Eddie Richardson went awry and Tulsa recovered at the Buff 13. On the first play, TU Quarterback Jeb Blount rolled to the left for the touchdown.

The Buffs couldn't move on their next possession and were forced into a punting situation at their own 24. But, Buddie Tate blocked Richardson's kick, the ball rolling out of bounds at the one. West Texas' defense, however, blossomed to herculean dimensions in denying the Hurricane a touchdown. Three jabs into the middle of the Buff line lost three yards but Arthur Bennett salvaged the possession with a 21-yard field goal.

The kick proved to be for the winning points.

WTSU came back with a vengeance in the fourth period. Driving 64 yards in 7 plays, Blanchard hit Tracy Dickson with a four-yard scoring toss and after Bruce Wyre's PAT, the Buffs were only three points down.

The Buffs go against Utah State on the road next weekend.

Bird return to lake is question for fall

Farming and earth-moving are major projects on the agenda this fall at Buffalo Lake, but refuge officials say they will just have to wait and see if the dry lake will fulfill its primary mission.

The pollution-plagued reservoir, allowed to dry up more than a year ago as the first step in a long-term revitalization program, might or might not be a stop-over and nesting area for hundreds of ducks and geese and other wild fowl heading south for the winter.

The fact that water area at the lake is now limited to an extent far smaller than in years prior to the draining of the lake coupled with the fact that there is an abundance of water in playa lakes and other small pools throughout the Panhandle could lessen the importance of the refuge in the migratory scheme, according to Refuge Manager Paul Ferguson.

Ferguson said the flyway, along which the migratory fowl travel from Canada and points in northern states as winter en-

Case dismissed, says judge

Long wait ends for accused man

A long wait has ended for an Amarillo truck driver, the first man charged in Texas under a law his attorney argued is unenforceable.

County Judge Woody Pond dismissed charges Friday filed in April 1972 against Melvin Glen DeBord, 23, of Amarillo, alleging homicide by vehicle.

DeBord's case, evolving for two years from an April 15, 1972 traffic accident north of Canyon in which another Amarillo man was killed, is mired in confusion.

DeBord was charged shortly after the accident which took the life of Richard E. Green, 21, of Amarillo, with homicide by vehicle, becoming the first man in Texas to face the charges listed in a new section of the Texas penal code.

Under the new law, Randall County grand jurors indicted the Amarilloan. But, since the charge was a misdemeanor, the case was referred from district court into county court for further action.

The charge replaced an old Texas felony law which provided penalties for negligent homicide. And, in the last year the homicide by vehicle law has itself been replaced by another negligent homicide statute.

Canyon attorney Harris Hampton, counsel for DeBord, said the case was dismissed Friday primarily due to a Texas Court of Criminal Appeals ruling issued recently which, while not speaking directly of the DeBord case, declared the old homicide by vehicle statute unconstitutional.

Hampton explained that the appellate court justice who wrote the opinion cited the fact that legislators made a technical error when composing the homicide by vehicle law and the technical error conflicted with the Texas constitution.

Nevertheless, Hampton says, the homicide by vehicle law was unworkable as presented to district attornies around the state.

"It was a terrible statute," Hampton said, noting that he knows of no successful prosecution in the state under that law.

Apparently, legislators recognized their errors, because the penal code was rewritten.

Our World

A Red Example

By ANN BROWN

Recent travelers in Russia and Red China have brought back some strange reports: The Golden Rule is being vigorously promoted among the communists — especially the Chinese.

Hard work, thrift, honesty, chastity — all the virtues, but especially chastity, the Chinese insist, has become a way of life with them.

They seldom marry until they are at least 25, and chastity is demanded of both men and women. Whether at work, study, or play, the young people are kept so constantly occupied with productive programs they are too busy or too tired for hanky-panky.

Chinese of all ages, but especially the youth, are taught that to be unchaste is to disgrace themselves, their families, and their Country.

What the communists practice after they take over a nation seems to be quite different from what they preach while they are attempting to gain control. Remember? "Free love" has always been one of the basic tenets.

The Chinese encourage their young people to postpone marriage until they have sufficient emotional maturity and financial security to establish stable homes, and be good parents.

The Red guides boasted that they did not have broken homes, juvenile crime, drug addiction, alcoholism, and numerous other problems that plague the "Christian" nations.

If this report is true, it indicates that the communists may have made the great discovery that virtue brings its own reward.

"Being good" has been defined by behavioral specialists as "doing to your fellow men as you would be done by."

Many Christians are amazed to learn that Confuscious taught the Golden Rule 500 years before Christ. But truth is practical throughout God's world, and not confined to the Christian's Bible.

Apparently, Confucious did not discover the great truths he taught, as did Buddha; he learned them from others, but that is immaterial. Truth is valuable regardless of its source.

The ancient Oriental philosophers learned it paid to be good just as have modern experimental psychologists.

Medical studies conducted at the National Institutes of Health, Cornell Medical Center, and many others, revealed that people who practiced the Golden Rule were drastically less prone to illness than the general population.

The experts found that "good" people had fewer colds, headaches, digestive problems, and were less subject to all types of serious ailments and diseases — even accidents.

The studies also showed that deceitful, dishonest people were more fearful, suspicious and distrustful of others (paranoid).

The "good" people were more concerned for the welfare of others, more trusting, more forgiving, and more sociable. They seemed to get far more joy out of life.

Personality tests showed the "good guys" were easier to get along with, and more at peace with themselves. Statistics also revealed that when those people did become ill, they averaged a much shorter recovery period. Naturally, they lived longer.

If communists have learned it pays to be good, surely there's hope for Christians.

There was one detail, however, that the proud Red guides failed to mention. Several Chinese Christians who escaped to Taiwan said that the some 60 million of their countrymen liquidated by the communists were not confined to preachers, teachers, land owners, government officials, writers, intellectuals, and other leaders. The blood bath also washed out the murderers, robbers, rapists, thieves, alchoholics, drug addicts, prostitutes, homosexuals, vandals, and all "non-productive" peoples.

It's understandable that a society so purged would be free of crime, docile, and industrious — at least for a generation or two.

It is doubtful, however, if the most ardent admirers of the Chinese Reds would advocate going quite that far to clean up America.

The New Teacher

By CARROLL WILSON

Professional educators are an altogether different breed on a college campus, attempting to interface the human with the technological and come up with a formula for "better teaching techniques."

My friend Professor Tobor at the local university, a recognized innovator (and we all know how important innovation is to educators) in his field, has designed the ultimate teacher by eliminating much of the human and stressing the technological. His invention makes teaching stations obsolete.

It also makes the teacher (human, that is) obsolete.

"Just think what a savings this will mean to the university," Tobor says vigorously. "We can eliminate all these faculty salaries, and fringe benefits and concentrate on recruiting students."

Tobor has taken the technology behind the robots which run the assembly lines in the new Volvo plant in Skoevde, Sweden, and the Shaky robot at Stanford University, mated his new robot to the Decsystem 10 computer at the local campus and came up with a surrogate instructor who can bring that human element back to the classroom.

Tobor's plan is to program his robots to initially take over instruction in the Arts & Sciences, citing the far-out crew which generally operates round the southeastern end of the campus.

The robots should bring a new excitement to the classroom, Tobor says, but he's equipped them with some more human characteristics so students will feel at least a certain kinship with the professor.

One robot, for example, is equipped with graying 10-guage insulated wire mounted on his metallic brow. Labelled affectionately by Tobor "the old Professor" robot, this one is not equipped with legs or arms. It simply sits behind a standard wooden desk, blinking light-eyes staring at tattered notes and mumbling in a stacatto monotone.

Another is equipped with large wheels and is programmed to criss-cross the classroom front exactly 86.4 times per 50 minutes, all the while spouting programmed rhetoric in high-pitched tones.

Yet another is programmed never to show up in class. This robot simply sits in his office, pipe clenched between tin teeth, smoke exiting from silver ears.

None of Tobor's robots can answer questions. They respond to student queries with blank looks.

Tobor has made such great progress in the field of education, he's inclined to branch out. He says he's tentatively designing a prototype bureaucrat, since only a minor part of his professor program will have to be rewritten.

Parts of the program which call for four hours of coffee drinking per day can be incorporated in the bureaucrat prototype. The blank looks to be given taxpayers rather than students can be retained. High-sounding professor-ese can be changed with ease to high-sounding and equally unintelligible bureaucratese.

What Tobor is building up to is the big challenge — the production of a U.S. Congressman. Some of colleagues have argued that Tobor should have begun his project with the Congressman because the program could be much more simple.

Nevertheless, Tobor pushes ahead. His research for the Congressman program includes an intensive effort to locate empty phrases for the robot's communication and a substance pliable enough to bend with every wind in Washington.

If Tobor thinks those are problems, wait until he tries to make the inherent logic of the computer compatible with the thought-pattern of real Congressmen. A robot would fit in well in Washington but logic has no place there.

Letter To The Editor

Fan Is Disgusted With Man's Action

To the Sports Editor of the Canyon newspaper:

I am a high school football fan. I enjoy the spirit and enthusiasm of the players whether they are ahead by 40 points or behind by 40. It builds character and the spirit of competition for life ahead.

Friday night I drove from Amarillo to Pampa to watch the Canyon Eagles play my old high school. I saw Canyon, plagued by fumbles and interceptions, play a good, clean, high-spirited football game. I saw nothing but good sportsmanship from both teams and enjoyed the game because of it.

What I saw after the game was the most disgusting and ugly piece of sportsmanship I have ever seen in my life in high school sports. The Eagles were coming off the field with their heads held high even though they had been beaten 33-0, a grown man ran up to #50 and started to cuss him out. If this wasn't bad enough the man kicked #50 in the seat of the pants with a pointed boot. This young man had just played his best in a losing cause, which to me is bad enough, but to be subjected to such humiliation is just too much.

I have since found out this man is from Canyon. I have nothing but the greatest respect for Canyon and their fine football team, but the lowest opinion of a man who will subject a young man to such humiliation in front of his fellow players and fans. This was the most disgusting thing I have ever seen in high school sports and I wish I had not been there to see it. I hope this man knows who he is and I wish I knew his name so that everyone would know the name of a man who would stoop this low. I truly feel sorry for this player and wish all the best for the Canyon Eagles for the rest of the year.

If this is printed I would appreciate not using my name unless necessary.

Dan Johnson, owner of the Western Auto Store in Canyon, shows Kelly Cox the 10-speed bicycle that will be given to one lucky rider in the Cyclethon which will be held soon. Money made in the Cyclethon will go to the heart association.

Heart Cycle Route Set

A 29-mile route has been established for Saturday's Cyclethon sponsored locally by the Heart Fund.

The route for cyclists will begin at the west side of the downtown Canyon courthouse and will proceed to the junior high school on 5th Avenue, then south on 8th Street to the Buffalo Lake Road. Then the cyclists will head west to Buffalo Lake. The same route will be used to come back to Canyon, but the race will end at the junior high rather than downtown.

The cyclethon begins at 9 a.m. Saturday and cyclists can begin their trek any time before 2 p.m. by simply checking in with starters at the courthouse, turning in pledge sheets and then reporting back in when they have traveled as far as they intend.

Weldon Trice, coordinator of the cyclethon, said check points will be established all along the route so bike riders can travel as much of the route as they wish.

He said he expects about 200 entrants in the event.

The cyclethon will be the only fund-raising campaign this year for the Heart Fund. No door-to-door campaign will be conducted.

Potential riders in the cyclethon will be contacting local residents however, to become sponsors, willing to pay a small amount for each mile the cyclist rides on the route.

Entry and pledge blanks are available at all Canyon schools, at all West Texas State University residence halls, at the WTSU activities center, at White's Auto, Western Auto, First National Bank, West Texas State Bank, Mike's Bikes, and at Cooper's Market.

EEOC has to offer, then so be it," Loudder said.

Loudder and the city's attorney, Elton Cox, contend the city is bound by state law to retain membership in the TMRS. Indeed, the statute seems to require that once a city joins the retirement system, it cannot quit.

"But, I will encourage them to solve the problem on a scale that solves not just one person's problem but which would solve problems for women in all private retirement systems," Loudder said.

Paving. . .

tricts is of considerable advantage.

"The people involved who want paving could initiate it, petition for it, they can vote for it and then pay for it," he said.

County commissioners in Randall County have for a number of months attempted to hold the line on a fast-increasing demand for paved roads in the county rural areas.

They have been quick to point out to various citizen groups requesting paved roads that the county tax base in the rural areas does not justify the expense for installation and then maintenance of pavement.

Fulgenzi has been particularly outspoken in charging that Amarillo and Canyon residents, who live within cities, are footing the bill to provide paving for rural residents.

It was not known, and Dowlen may address the issue Monday afternoon, what effect the establishment of paving districts might have on a particularly knotty problem which worries commissioners even more than rural road pavement requests.

That problem involves the establishment of subdivisions, many designed to house hundreds of families, in various parts of the northern portion of the county.

Commissioner Paul Lindsey has been adamant in striving to ensure the county is not stuck with a major maintenance bill for streets laid in subdivisions. Along with this effort, commissioners last year passed a strict and much-criticized county road policy which provides that the county will maintain subdivision streets as dirt roads unless curb and gutter and a specified pavement base is provided.

Board. . .

South Amarillo.

Currently, the board of trustees is made up of elected members — Amarillo accountant Don Marsh, Amarillo machine shop operator Charles Purcell, Randall County farmer Joe Turpin, Canyon attorney J.D. Barker and farmer R.B. Gist.

Pond serves only as secretary of the board and has no vote on the board.

In the past, particularly under County Judge Carroll Brown, a move was initiated to do away with the county school board, or at least to remove the county judge from the board.

The move culminated in a bill before the Texas legislature and some counties — not including Randall — were allowed to remove the county judge from the position of ex-officio superintendent.

Pond feels it would be a mistake to abolish the county school board.

"There's a definite need for the county school board," he said, "for just exactly what we're into right now."

Annex. . .

are erratic, over-crowded and improperly supervised. It also notes the major traffic accident last year involving a loaded school bus and an area man.

Elton Cox, attorney for the Canyon School Board, spoke briefly and pointed out that if the families are concerned only about their children's safety and their own convenience, they should have petitioned to have only their homes annexed into the Amarillo district.

"I do not believe you should consider the pleas of a developer," he said. "If Mr. O'Dell wants to sell lots, he's not necessarily concerned with what is best for the children."

Cox pointed out that the children are receiving a fine education in the Canyon schools and noted that many more children are injured in automobile accidents on their way to school than are injured in school bus accidents.

Cox said if the plea of a developer is heeded at this time by the trustees, they have left themselves open for a myriad of other similar pleas. His speech was met with applause.

Several Gene Howe area parents told the trustees they had moved south of Amarillo specifically so their children could attend Canyon schools rather than Amarillo schools.

And, they said they feared that if the 150-acre tract is allowed to be annexed by Amarillo, it will not be long before other moves are made to annex other property.

Canyon School Supt. Jerry Jacobs called on the trustees to deny the petition, noting that the local school board has already purchased land and has hired an architect to plan establishment of a new junior high, a new high school and possibly an elementary school in the South Amarillo area.

Pete Dallas, a member of the Amarillo school board, said it is the policy of that board to encourage developers to petition for annexation into the Amarillo school district.

He implied that if developers are not allowed to enter the Amarillo district, the growth of Amarillo will be hampered, but he did not elaborate.

Upon questioning by Cox, Dallas admitted that the Amarillo board was not interested in obtaining the additional land through annexation just for benevolent reasons.

Canyon School Board President Tom Keeling reminded the trustees that if they decide in favor of annexation, they will be setting an important precedent which could drastically effect the future of the Canyon school district.

He noted the efforts, now defunct, of developers to have 11 sections of land annexed by Amarillo.

Birds. . .

croaches, is expected to bring a large increase in the number of geese to this area for winter. About the same number of ducks as seen in recent years is expected to come to the Panhandle.

Ducks have already begun arriving in many watery areas of the northern part of the state, Ferguson said, and cranes have also begun their arrival.

If they arrive at Buffalo Lake expecting a comfortable winter nesting habitat, they may be disappointed.

Ferguson said water is standing only in a small pool near the lake dam and some ducks have flocked to that portion of the refuge.

"If we'd get a miracle and some rainfall directly on us, behind the dam, then I'd say we'd have as good or better than we've had," he said.

If the rains should come, the refuge crew has prepared for that eventuality during the past spring and summer through construction of a dike to hold water on the very southern portion of the lake.

Ferguson said the dike is virtually finished. Construction on a small waterway to route water around the center and northern portion of the lake should begin later this fall, he said.

Several farmers who joined together to plant nearly a section of grain sorghum last spring in the lake bed — an effort to draw polluting nutrients from the rich soil — are not considering a late planting of wheat for winter growth.

The farming operation, which is confined to the southern end of the reservoir and a 15-acre strip down the center of the lake, is part of the overall lake improvement program proposed by Ferguson. The plan anticipates that the growth of crops in the lake bottom for about five years will draw out enough nutrients from the soil to make it feasible for fish and other water life to live in any water which might flow into the lake.

Ferguson said the farmers will probably not harvest the about 400 acres of sorghum planted on the southern tip because of widespread growth of weeds.

But, he said, they are contemplating whether to go ahead and harvest the sorghum which was planted by air in a strip down the lake center.

Most soil tests will be run on the lake bottom, particularly in areas covered by crops, next spring, the refuge manager said, to determine what effect the plants had on the nutrient levels in the soil.

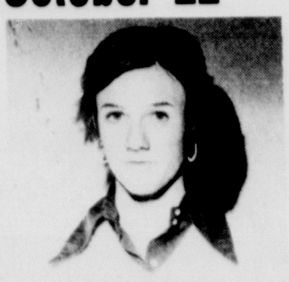
UN Pilgrimmage Report By Miss Webb October 22



Shanna Webb

Shanna Webb will report to the Rebekah Lodge in Amarillo October 22 on her 'pilgrimmage for youth' trip taken during the summer to the United Nations, a trip sponsored by the Odd Fellow and Rebekah Lodges.

Miss Webb, a senior at Canyon High School, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Webb. During her summer trip, Shanna toured the National Cemetery, saw the sights of Washington, D.C., and attended a congressional session of the United Nations where she gave the following speech for UN delegates there.

Challenge A Game Of Life

Life is a gift to us all — a gift used to share with others in love, union of friendship and most of all, peace within oneself. My goal in life circles around a challenge. A challenge to prove to all others that I am an individual and can become a leader to the best of my qualifications. By making this trip to the United Nations, I have become more aware that my generation of today will make the vital decisions of tomorrow. For my generation, I advise to teach our children that war brings only sorrow to mankind and to the innocent, to respect the rights of the human individual no matter what race, religion or creed, to maintain justice and law so that all may reason and follow willingly and to better our progess in society for environment and social progress in aiding foreign countries. I set my goal high enough so that I must struggle only to receive my reward well deserved.

The practice of tolerance should be used more often in order to live with one another in peace among nations and countrymen. So many problems come about today because of the little trust and compromise between nations and culturals among the people. Two wrongs don't make a right; therefore, we must work together, practice more patience and love others with sincerity.

We have gathered here from all parts of the states — we stand as a symbol for our generation. Life has been good to us all — it has given us a homeland, freedom of rights and progress in society. Now is the time to set a higher goal and work for a challenge to become "leader" in all desired fields.

Life is a one-way game — play it with the best skills.

Eagles Win First District Game

The Canyon High Eagles won their second game of the year Friday night in Dumas as they downed the Dumas Demons 14-9. The most important aspect is that this was the first district contest for either team.

The Eagles, picked to win district 1-AAA in pre-season polls, showed that they were capable of moving the ball on the ground or in the air. They also proved their capabilities defensively.

Quarterback Garre LaGrone completed five of six passes for a total of 72 yards gained in the air. His longest pass play of the night was a 49 yard play, aided by Rusty Holiday, which set up the Eagle TD.

Adrian Foil led in the rushing department. Foil gained 62 yards on 12 carries in the first half and 41 yards on 10 carries in the second half giving Foil 103 yards for the night's effort.

Jimmy Ward has 37 yards in the second half to add to his 28 yards in the first half. Ward has 65 yards on 10 carries for a 6.5 yard per carry average.

Craig Johnson gained 29 yards during the game and LaGrone added 17 yards to the rushing statistics.

Kenny Basinger punted three times for a 34 yard per punt average.

Canyon defeated the Demons both on the scoreboard and on the stat sheet. The Eagles had 15 first downs compared to only 10 for Dumas. The Eagles gained a total of 286 yards during the game. Dumas totaled 172 yards on offense. The Eagle defense held Dumas to only 60 yards total offense in the second half.

Dumas attempted 13 passes and completed only three for a total of 53 yards. Eagle defenders did well in the pass protection department. They picked off one pass and almost intercepted three others.

Canyon kicked off to Dumas but they were unable to gain a first down on the first series. Dumas punted and Canyon took the ball on their 35 yard line. They moved the ball to the Dumas 21 yard line where they gave up the ball on downs.

Dumas moved the ball from their 21 yard line to the Eagle 30 before having to punt on fourth down. The Eagles got the ball on their own five yard line. The punt went out of bounds on the five.

After moving the ball to the 17 they were pushed back to their own eight yard line and Canyon was forced to punt once again.

Dumas took advantage of their good field position as they took the ball on the Canyon 44 yard line. Seven plays later with 8:29 left in the first half, Dumas scored the first TD of the night. Wayne Jones, of Dumas, carried the ball the needed six yards for the score. The PAT was good and Dumas led 7-0.

Canyon received the kick on their four yard line and Foil ran the ball back to the 20. Fourteen plays later, LaGroné scampered the needed 13 yards for the first Eagle TD. Ward added the PAT with 2:15 left in the second quarter.

Dumas took the ball on their 40 yard line and moved it to the Canyon 31 where Elliot Berry intercepted a Dumas pass and gave the Eagles the ball on their 31.

On the first play from scrimmage, the ball slipped from Eagle hands and Dumas recovered the ball on the Eagle 28. Jimmy Ward blocked a pass attempt on third down and Dumas attempted a field goal. The field goal try from the 24 yard line was short.

The first half ended with a 7-7 tie.

In the second half, Dumas kicked to Canyon to open action. Canyon took the ball on the 20 yard line in their end of the field. Nine plays later the Eagles had tallied TD number two.

The Eagles kept the ball on the ground for the first seven plays. They marched the ball from the Canyon 20 to the Canyon 45 yard line. LaGrone lofted a long pass to Rusty Holiday. Holiday took the ball to Dumas' six yard line. Jimmy Ward plowed forward for the TD. Ward made the PAT and the Eagles led 14-7.

Dumas was unable to get beyond their 39 yard line and was forced to punt to the Eagles. The Eagles moved the ball from their 24 to the 39 before giving up the ball on a fumbled pitch-back between the quarterback and his fullback.

Dumas took the ball on the Eagle 24 and moved the ball to the seven yard line. The Eagles held the Demons there.

The third quarter ended with the Eagles on their 41 yard line.

The Eagles did not get beyond the 41 on this series of plays and was forced to punt.

Dumas and the Eagles traded the ball once again. Dumas was forced to punt the ball from the Eagle 49 yard line. A perfect punt went to the Eagle one. The Eagles, on a busted play, were caught in their own end zone for a two-point safety and were given a free kick from the 20 yard line.

With two minutes left in the game, Dumas was on the Canyon 25 yard line. The Eagles stopped them there. The Eagles controlled the ball for the remainder of the game.

Cowboys Tie Oakdale

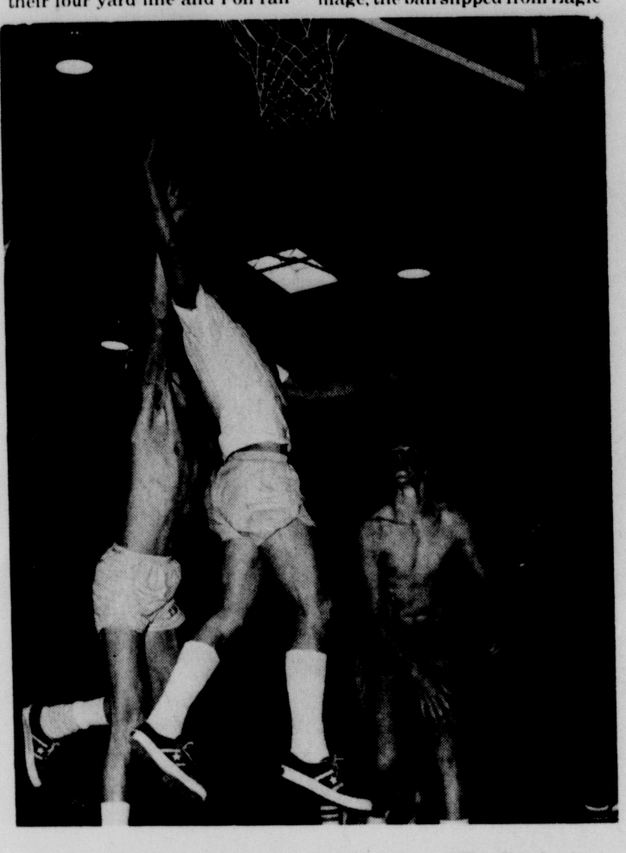
Canyon Cowboys sixth grade league "B" played Oakdale to a 6-6 tie Thursday night.

Joe Shehan set up the touchdown with a 30 yard run. Robbie Owens scored the TD.

The defensive team did an outstanding job according to coaches Tony Gibson and Steve Bland.

The Cowboys have a 1-3-1 record. Their next game will be Sunday in Canyon against Gene Howe at 2 p.m.

The Cowboys were beaten by a 24-0 score by the Western Plateau team.



Basketball season is just around the corner. The Eagles have begun two-a-day workouts. The Eagles have only one returning starter this year and only two returning varsity members but Coach B.B. Kendrick is optimistic acout the season.

WT Women Hopeful

The championship of North Texas State's tournament last weekend has bouyed West Texas State's hopes going into the Texas Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women state tournament in Nacogdoches.

"We beat some good schools (in Denton) and that has to help our confidence in the state tournament," Coach Mary Hill says.

Texas Women's University is favored to win the state title with the Buffalo Gals joining North Texas State, Texas-Arlington and Texas-Austin as contenders.

Pitcher Mary Pace will lead the Buffs, West Zone champions, into the double elimination tournament that runs Friday through Sunday on the campus of Stephen F. Austin State University in Nacogdoches.

Ekker Likes What He Sees

It didn't take long for Ron Ekker to smile after West Texas State's first basketball practice session Tuesday (Oct. 15).

"We fouled a lot, but gee whiz, we played some sticky defense," Ekker said after the opening workout in Buffalo Fieldhouse. It was the type workout that could make writers and sportscasters attending the Missouri Valley Conference's pre-season press conference last weekend in Tulsa look a bit conservative with their fifth-place prediction for the Buffs.

Teaching the offense was the main item on the agenda in Tuesday's practice as Ekker had his team walk through the patterns, but it was the half-hour scrimmage that brought the smile to Ekker's face.

"We were sloppy, but it was the first practice," Edder added.

Practice continues daily for the Buffs with the annual Media Day set for Tuesday, Oct. 22. An exhibition game against the Brazilian National team will mark the first chance for home appearance for the team Nov. 22, while the official regular season gets underway Nov. 30 against Panhandle State.

This year all games, including the exhibition game against the Brazilians, will be in the Amarillo Civic Center Coliseum. Season tickets for all 16 home games are on sale at the WTSU athletic ticket office on the Canyon campus.

JV Loses To Clovis

The junior varsity for Canyon High School lost their second game of the season Thursday night to the Clovis JV. This is the second loss suffered at the hands of Clovis by the local JV.

Last week the Canyon team blanked Dumas 25-0.

According to Bob Schneider, coach of the Canyon JV, Ronnie Whitney played consistent football throughout the game. Whitney had 65 yards rushing and a 23 yard touchdown run for his offensive work. On defense, Whitney made three unassisted tackles and assisted on two more.

Offensively for the locals, Ricky Cooper had 50 yards rushing and completed two of five passes for 45 yards. He added one PAT to the losing effort.

John Prater caught two passes for 45 yards. He made four unassisted tackles and three assisted tackles.

Matt Madewell had 55 yards for the night's effort. He made five tackles on defense and assisted on one other tackle.

On defense, Coach Schneider said that Madewell and Gary Word did a good job stopping the option. His two defensive ends, Gary Castleman and Greg Carlile, played a good game. Castleman and Darrell Chandler each recovered a fumble.

Inconsistency seems to plague the JV according to Schneider. He stated that the team would do a good job during most of the game but then they seemed to let up.

Fights Set To Aid Forehand

Two nights of scheduled fights at Canyon High School gymnasium will benefit the Kelly Forehand Fund. The fights will be held October 25-26 at 8 p.m. each evening. Admission will be $2 for adults and $1 for students.

The teams competing in the matches will be from Canyon, Amarillo, Tulia, Hereford, Clarendon, Stinnett and Guymon, Oklahoma.

Fifty percent of all gate proceeds will go to Forehand with all money made from concessions and program sales going to the Fund.

Fifty percent of the gate proceeds will benefit the Canyon Boxing Club.

These two nights are being sponsored by the Canyon Eagle Football teams, the Canyon Eagle Booster Club and the Canyon Boxing Club.

Two Buffs Gain Nominations

Two members of the WT Buffalo football team were nominated for player of the week honors in the Missouri Valley Conference last week.

Rick Mordecai, corner back for the Buffs, was nominated as defensive player of the week. Louisville's A. J. Jacobs received the nod as player of the week on defense for the second week straight.

Ricky Rice, junior half back for the Buffs, was nominated for offensive player of the week honors. Steve Largent of the Tulsa Hurricanes gained the nod.

Tennis Team To Complete Tournament

Due to rain the WT tennis team will complete the Oklahoma State Doubles tournament Sunday, November 3 in Stillwater, Oklahoma.

At the present time, WT is in second place behind the Oklahoma State team. Oklahoma State has 18 points, WT has 14 points, Kansas has 11 points and Oklahoma City University has 10 points.

"We have a crack at the championship," stated David Kent, coach of the WT team. He stated that the team will have to play excellent tennis to bring home the title.

Members of the WT team who are still in the tournament include Samuel Nunez and Brett Hall, singles, and doubles teams Bobby Kleinecke-Dana Caledonia, Wayne Marsh-Todd Reed and Nunez-Steve Johnson.

Hall defeated the number one rated player in the tourney, Mike Collins from Oklahoma State. Collins was defeated by Hall 7-5, 7-5. Kent stated that the victory was one of the best that a WT player has had. Collins, from England, played in a tournament in England this summer and advanced to the finals where he was edged out by Jimmy Connors.

Another surprise for Kent came from his doubles team Kleinecke and Caledonia. They defeated the number one rated doubles team from Oklahoma State 6-3, 3-6, 6-2. Kent stated that this doubles team from WT had been picked below his other teams but their showing at the Oklahoma tournament has been strong.

Kent said that Nunez and Johnson have a chance at the doubles title at the tournament.

Sideline Views

By JIM ROGERS

If the Eagles of Canyon High School can get by Perryton November 1, they should be able to win the district 1-AAA crown. That is, if they also take Levelland and Muleshoe seriously during the remaining games of the season.

The Eagles will rest next Friday night. A rest that is much needed and much deserved following their six 4-A games and the winning of the first district contest.

Perryton is strong this year. Perryton won their first district game Friday night. Perryton and Canyon have played common opponents equally this year. As an example, Canyon and Perryton had the same score against Pampa.

The Eagles still need to settle down just a bit. They continue to be plagued with fumbles. The Eagles lost the ball twice this past week on fumbles.

Eagle spirits are running high this year and it looks like it will be well rewarded.

WT Buffs have looked like a different team since their one sided game with New Mexico State which they lost. The Buffs have come on strong.

This column is written prior to Saturday night's game. If the Buffs win, they have the best shot at the Missouri Valley Conference title. If they lose, this writer will standby his third place prediction for the Buffs this year.

Dallas who? Dallas Cowboy fans seem to have faded into the woodwork and one cannot blame them. The Cowboys have looked poor in their games so far this year.

It would be a long fall in Canyon if it were not for the winning ways of the Eagles and Buffs.

One Victory For Junior High Football

Three touchdowns by Billy Bender led the seventh grade Purple football team at Canyon Junior High School to a 36-26 victory over Stanton Tuesday. The Purple team was the only junior high team in Canyon to win in the week's action.

In other games the seventh grade White team lost to Estacado 20-8, Stanton downed the eighth grade Purple team 32-0, Estacado defeated the eighth grade White 22-8, and Stanton beat the ninth grade Purple team 22-8.

6th Graders Still Winning

Canyon's 6th Grade 2 team downed South Georgia Thursday night for their fifth straight win of their undefeated season.

Kendall Walling was key to the three 6th Grade scoring drives, running 20 yards for one TD, 30 yards for another and passing about 15 yards to Tom Nix for the final score.

The 6th graders play again at 3 p.m. today in Canyon.

Football Game Aids Forehand

The West Texas State Fraternity All-Stars will play the Amarillo Flag Football All-Stars Oct. 22 at 7:30 p.m. on the Canyon High School fields to raise money for Kelly Forehand, a Canyon High School student hurt while playing football.

Three members of each WTSU fraternity have volunteered their services for the game, in addition to the sidelines support coming from WTSU sororities.

Admission to the "Kelly Forehand Benefit Game" is $2 per ticket. Tickets can be obtained from WTSU fraternity and sorority members, or at the game.

Carolyn Kite, a graduate music student, will accompany Todd on the harpsichord and piano for the faculty recital which is open to the public. A reception will follow in the formal lounge.

Palisades Palaver
Still Missing The Palisades

By MILDRED TURNER

GEE, I MISS you, every last one of you!

Last Sunday evening Belva and J. T. and I were invited over to J. T.'s cousin's but I decided to stay here and go swimming. The phone rang and Garland didn't even recognize my voice; said my voice must be changing. After swimming for forty five minutes, watching one TV program, I just went in, got on the twin bed (I sleep in the nursery) and stared at the ceiling. "I never get bored, stay busy and I'm not too homesick," I told myself.

I THOUGHT ABOUT each one of you in the Palisades, how are you? What have you been doing?

How are the sick folks, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Trimble, Greg Moore, probably better I hope.

How was J. R. and Jackie Horne's trip to Europe? Is Pam Lindsey back from California?

Has Grace and Orville Ladehoff got their new baby yet? (Is supposed to arrive this week.) Vicki and Randy Hooker's baby is supposed to arrive around October 27.

Belva and J. T. were expecting theirs around September 27 but the doctor had her call me and I came down on the 22nd. I may be home by the time this is printed! I keep saying that. No baby yet!

A special little hello to "tiny R.," R. and M. F.

Got a letter from Sara, also a phone call and she accused me of planning my vacations always near a swimming pool (again).

Would someone call Jim Sands over at Britain's Studio and tell him I will be home before Christmas and see about the pictures I ordered and plan to order.!

I WISH ALL you lovely ladies in the Palisades would bake a pie or cake and take over to Greg M. You know how growing boys like sweets, and need to be cheered up.

You teenage girls could take over some fresh fruit, hot cookies or home made candy (way to a man's heart!)

You guys can jump in your jalopy and go get him some tricky gadget puzzles, books, jigsaw puzzle, etc. Don't stay too long at a time, but let him know he's got buddies who care.

THIS NURSERY DOESN'T have a dictionary so I probably have a lot of misspelled words! huh?

Recently J. T. took Belva and I over to the Botanical Gardens which were a delight to me. In the building were many lovely, exotic plants with name plates, origination, several various poison and non-poison snakes, many beautiful nature scenes from all over the U.S. One interesting looking glass room we did not get to go in because they were having class for about thirty little Brownies and several adults. When they came out, the teacher was pointing out the different kinds of insects, wasps nests, before going on their nature hike.

I was just "itching" to go in this large hot house but it was for "Employees Only." I just went bananas over all those plants.

By the way, I am scrounging up some plants to bring home (as usual). Will share with the first ones who come over with some news tips...don't break a leg though!

Back to the forest jungle gardens; on the outside were also many interesting, unique plants, shrubs and trees, labeled. One fig tree had small green figs, but the banana trees had no bananas.

The trails through the forest jungle were named and we wandered down many of these reading the names, enjoying the atmosphere and beauty in the hushed twilight.

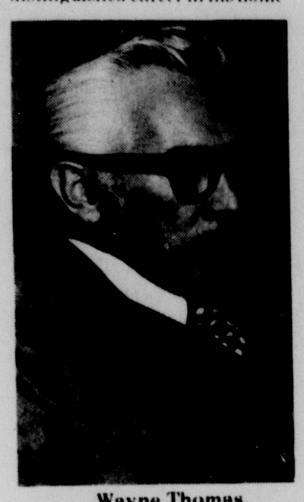
AGAIN, I SAY I am sure missing you, everyone of you. I finally got some letters from Janet, Sheree and Garland. I sure have a big family and miss all of you in the Palisades.

M.T.

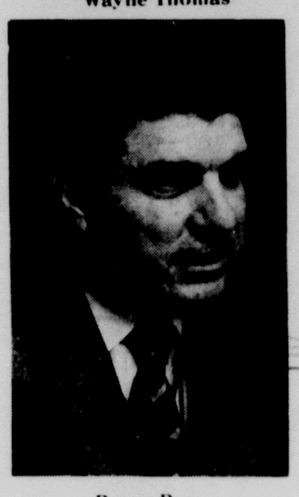
Thomas, Box Honored Alums

The West Texas State University Distinguished Alumni for 1974 who will be honored during the Homecoming Celebrations Nov. 2 are Boyce Box of Amarillo and Wayne Thomas of Hereford.

Each man is being recognized for his service to West Texas State, and the achievement of a distinguished career in his home-town community and the region as a whole.



Wayne Thomas



Boyce Box

Thomas, a 1947 graduate of WTSU, is a prominent Hereford lawyer who has been a member of the Coordinating Board of the Texas College and University System since 1969.

In looking at WTSU, Thomas stated that its "role is one I consider to be major in the state.

"I would like to see WTSU continue and perhaps enlarge its service to the region itself," he continued. "This means looking down the road at least a decade to see what the economic future of the Panhandle area is and how West Texas State as the University of the Golden Spread can meet these needs and prepare its graduates to serve this area.

"The possibilities and potentials there are almost unlimited," he noted.

"Everyone in the Panhandle," according to Thomas, "should take the opportunity to learn more about West Texas State University to know what kind of institution it is, what it has to offer, and how it affects their communities.

"I think each of us would be surprised to learn that it makes a whole lot of difference.

"The future of the whole Panhandle region will be materially affected by the growth and development of West Texas State, and it will take more than the appropriations of the legislature, it will take general support and enthusiasm of everyone," he concluded.

In law school at the University of Texas, Thomas attained numerous honors, including being named to the Texas Law Review, Order of the Coif, Chancellors and the Texas Bar Foundation. In Hereford, he is active in Boy Scouts, United Fund, the Hereford Development Committee, Deaf Smith General Hospital Board of Managers, and was a recipient of the Chamber of Commerce Leadership Award in 1974. He is listed in "Who's Who in Texas" and "Who's Who in the South and Southwest."

Box, owner of Box Insurance Agency and numerous other businesses in Amarillo, has been very active in West Texas State athletic support.

"The support of Boyce Box, has, on several occasions, meant the life or death of various athletic programs at West Texas State," said the three members of the Distinguished Alumni Selection Committee.

"He has always come through when he was needed," they added.

Box listed many outstanding areas at West Texas State, one of which is the musical drama "TEXAS," which he states could not be done without WT.

He cited a need for WT's alumni to return to campus, and to regain an "esprit de corps" so vitally needed for the university's development.

He feels that WT has found the "spark that is needed in Dr. Watkins, who is not too sophisticated of an educator to mix and mingle with every individual."

The 1949 WT graduate was a member of the "T" Club and lettered in basketball and football. A versatile athlete, he played forward on the basketball team, and end on the Buffalo football squad. Box was the basketball team's captain in 1947-48, and was top scorer that year.

In Amarillo, he is a life member of the Million Dollar Round Table, owner of Box Oil Company and Southgate Company, and is active in the First Baptist Church.

Wayside Community Homecoming Today

The annual Wayside community homecoming is scheduled for Sunday, October 20, with church services beginning at 11 a.m., a potluck dinner at 12:30 a.m.; and the community homecoming program at 1:30 p.m.

Rev. Roland Moore, Methodist minister for the Wayside-Vigo congregations, will conduct the church services.

The afternoon program will be "Golden Memories of Yesteryear Continued" following the theme used last year. All community residents are invited to bring something 50 years old or older to share with the group and "tell of its origin and meaning to them through the years — be it either trash or treasure."

Special recognition will be given to all native born Wayside residents and to those who have lived in the Wayside area 50 years or more.

City Will Eye Zoning

Canyon city commissioners face a light agenda for their regular meeting which begins at 7 p.m. Monday in the community center.

Commissioners will consider a request for paving of an alley, and will consider a plat and zoning request for a new subdivision in the eastern part of the city.

Two appointments to the Canyon Library Board will be discussed, and recommendations for changes in fire zones will be reviewed for possible action.

ORAL CONTRACEPTIVES

Have you wondered why you need a prescription for these pills—or why your doctor restricts the number of months you may be "on them"?

Well, of course, he knows that these hormones are not entirely harmless. For instance, any of the following "over-the counter" medications could possibly affect, or be affected by oral contraceptives:

Antihistamines – Sedatives, tranquilizers
Insulin – Even certain vitamins!

So, don't take any medicines without being sure. If in doubt, ask your doctor or your pharmacist.

EFFICIENCY
COMFORT

ECONOMY

NATURAL ENERGY Gas Heating

Fresh, warm air gently circulating from floor to ceiling ... so nice to take for granted. Comfort is clean gas heat.

And that dependable comfort is such a bargain here in West Texas. Though gas energy costs a little more than it use to, gas furnaces still cost less than one-third as much to operate as similar electric furnaces.

And at the same time you're saving money with gas heating, you can also have a warm feeling knowing that you're helping conserve energy. Gas heating uses only half as much energy as an electric system doing the same job.

Comfort, efficiency, and economy ... you get it all with natural energy gas heating.
